Plot To Kill De Gaulle Is Broken Up

4 Are Arrested;
Others Sought By French Officials

PARIS (AP) — Military and police forces reported they broke up a plot to shoot down President Charles de Gaulle on Friday, arrested at least three military officers and a woman and launched a manhunt across France for others.

The plot was to gun down De Gaulle with a high-powered rifle fitted with a telescopic sight when he visited historic L'Ecole Militaire, the military school where Napoleon learned his fighting trade.

Informants said De Gaulle was told of the plot Thursday night, the fourth against his life in 17 months. But the 72-year-old president visited the school on schedule. He departed from custom, however, and rode in an armored car instead of his usual sedan.

ARMS FOUND

A government communiqué said three officers and a woman were being held on suspicion of "subversive activities." It reported a search for suspects was being pressed into the night hours and that documents and arms had been found.

Moving before dawn, police and military units began rounding up suspects. How many they seized was not known. But Interior Ministry informants said five were held and that others were picked up, questioned, and released.

Government sources said the five arrested were: Robert Poinard, 37, a navy artillery captain, and his wife; army Capt. Jacquot, 40, who lived at the school; army Capt. Maublou d'Arbaumont, 35, and Mrs. Rousselet de Liffiac, 35, who taught English at the school.

It was not clear whether both women had been picked up and only one held or whether the original report from government sources was in error. Ministry informants were not available for clarification.

The rifle with the telescopic sight was seized at Poinard's home along with other weapons and ammunition, the sources said. Poinard was pictured as leader of the plot.

In his speech at the military school, De Gaulle said his atomic striking force would be a contribution to Allied efforts to hold Western Europe. He said if Europe were overrun, the French striking force would preserve a bridgehead for a return of Allied forces.

Probe Planned By Committee On Subversion

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee announced Friday it will begin an investigation Monday into Communist subversion in Latin America, a problem which has become a major one for the United States.

U.S. officials and the secretary-general of the Organization of American States, Dr. Jose A. Mora, endorsed President Kennedy's emphasis, at his news conference Thursday, on Red efforts to overturn Latin-American governments.

The President said Communist activity against Latin-American regimes "is a matter which the United States government is giving its greatest attention to this winter."

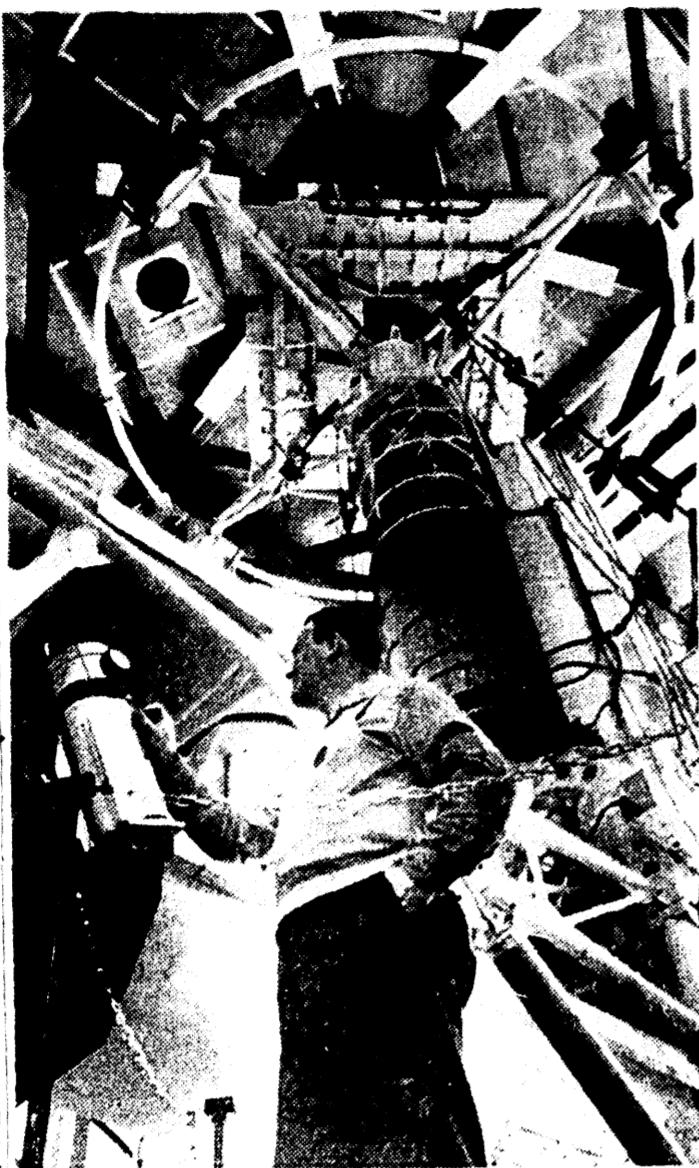

Highly placed U.S. officials said the movement of Communist funds, and agents of subversion, espionage and sabotage throughout Latin America have become one of two major topics under constant review by the National Security Council. The other is the matter of division among the Western Allies in Europe.

Rep. Arnistead Selden, D-Ala., chairman of the House Inter-American Affairs subcommittee, said two key U.S. officials and a Cuban exile leader would be the first witnesses when his group opens its hearings.

Cuba Holding 9 Skin Divers

HAVANA (UPI) — Communist Cuba Friday held nine shipwrecked American skin divers incomunicado as suspected U.S. spies and suspended without explanation the further issuance of exit permits for Cubans with American citizenship and their dependents.

The suspension of further departures of Cuban-Americans came after some 500 had already left the country in recent weeks. It coincided with the seizure of the shipwrecked Americans on the north coast of Camaguey Province in central Cuba.

EPIDEMIC PROPORTIONS

Sharp Rise In Flu Deaths Reported

By United Press International

Federal health officials Friday reported a sharp increase in influenza and pneumonia deaths in an outbreak of flu which spread across the East and Midwest and reached epidemic proportions in some cities.

The flu outbreak hit hard at Cincinnati, St. Louis and Louisville and caused a high rate of absenteeism in schools and industry in many cities.

NLSC Jazz Group Receives Praise

Further reports indicate that the Northeast Louisiana State College Jazz Ensemble currently on a U.S.O. tour of Europe is making quite a bit in Germany.

An article in the Feb. 7 issue of "The Sacom Scene," publication of the Public Affairs Section offices published by Munchener Buchgewerbehaus for the Department of the Army, says the Jazz Unlimited program of the Northeast State musicians is one of the highlights of the Sacom area.

Dr. Harry M. Lemert, dean of the division of fine arts and who is accompanying the group along with Director Del Sawyer, writes saying the group had played 11 engagements before service organizations in Germany before Feb. 10, plus radio service to army hospitals.

Pentagon Thinks
Hijacked Ship Not In Cuban Waters

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Navy ships and planes scoured the south Caribbean for the hijacked Venezuelan freighter Anzoategui, and the Pentagon said Friday night "we have a good reason to believe" the vessel has not reached Cuban waters.

Apart from this, it was evident that the Navy, after two days of helping Venezuelan forces search, does not know where the missing ship is.

A Defense Department spokesman told reporters Navy ships and planes had promptly moved into position to cut off the approaches to Cuba and on this basis the Navy was sure the ship had not made it to that Communist haven.

DIRECTION UNCERTAIN

Actually, the spokesman made it plain that the navy is not certain in what direction the freighter is traveling.

At 6 p.m. Friday, he said about 750,000 square miles had been searched visually and by radar since the United States joined the hunt at the request of the Venezuelan government at noon Thursday.

More than 400 ships of at least 1,000 tons, plus many hundred smaller vessels, had been sighted and identified by Navy patrol aircraft and ships and for a week, the spokesman said.

"We have thoroughly searched, by radar and eyeball, the Caribbean Sea area bounded by the Greater Antilles, the northern coast of South America and the Lesser Antilles," the spokesman said.

"We are now widening our area of search," he added.

The estimated position of the freighter, as provided to the Navy by the Venezuelan government at midday Thursday, was in the Caribbean about midway between Venezuela and Santo Domingo. The vessel was believed traving on this new installment plan.

Until January, the state had paid in full the state refund to the parishes on a first come, first served basis.

Tugwell said $37 million was earmarked this fiscal year for the state's refunds to the parishes and state tax revenues just don't arrive fast enough.

MONTHLY PLAN

Until January, the treasurer paid off in full 45 parishes. Then he launched the monthly payment plan for all 19 parishes remaining, saying that was the only way to be fair to all.

"It takes nearly 12 months to collect all the $37 million for the homestead exemption refund payments," Tugwell said in an interview. "We've paid out approximately $18 million to 45 parishes, and still owe about $19 million.

"We have decided to change the method of payments so that all those remaining will receive 15 per cent of the amounts owed them each month until paid in full," he said. The first partial payment was paid Jan. 5.

Beginning with the first month in the new fiscal year next July, Tugwell said, he plans to put all parishes on the start on the monthly payment basis. Those filing their claims the first month will be paid 10 per cent, and 10 per cent each month until paid in full.

Parishes filing the second month will draw 20 per cent the first time, then 10 per cent each month. And parishes filing the third month will draw 30 per cent the first time, 10 per cent after that.

BATON ROUGE (AP) — State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell said Friday 19 parishes are receiving their homestead exemption tax refunds in monthly payments, and next fiscal year will be placed on this new installment plan.

A visitor from Russia says there is no name for smog in his language. And just when, at last, we had found something we were perfectly happy to let them claim they had invented.

Isn't it a strange thing that the world was really calmer back in the days when spies carried daggers and poison vials than it is today when their main armament is only a camera?

The February political orator who cries out his desire that Washington or Lincoln would show up at this hour might be considerably embarrassed if either of them did.

Not Immune!

Polio victims, take note! You are not immune to further attacks. You, like all other persons over three months old, should take the oral Sabin vaccine.

One member of the Mims family—the next to youngest—suffered polio at age of 21 months. Last did not receive the first feeding Sunday when Victory Over Polio Day arrived in Ouachita Parish. The Mims family was one of the first in line.

Mrs. Mims said Friday that her family had all taken the oral Sabin vaccine — all eight of them. Her son Gregory, now three months past his second birthday, was stricken with polio when he was barely 21 months old. He can walk now with the aid of braces, but he cannot get around like the rest of the children in his family. He had not had the earlier Salk vaccine against polio and was unprotected.

Mrs. Mims told the story of her family in her family as the Ouachita Parish Medical Society and the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce prepare to press their campaign to rid Ouachita Parish of polio.

Brown Says Rockefeller Is 'Best Bet'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California said Friday that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York looks like the best bet for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964, "but governors do get into trouble."

Brown, a Democrat, said the problems of big states are so knotty that the governor's chair no longer is the best route to the White House.

He added, with a grin, "It takes all the time you have to do a good job in a big state. Such states as California, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Michigan all have tough problems."

Except for California, these states all elected Republican governors last fall.

Brown, speaking at a National Press Club luncheon, refused to predict whether President Kennedy would carry California in 1964 if he runs for re-election.

"I predicted Kennedy would carry California by a million votes in 1960," he said, "so my credentials as a prognosticator are somewhat clouded."

But Brown added that Kennedy's popularity is great in California and, "The President will find a much better reception there in 1964 than Sen. Kennedy did in 1960."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Kennedy's Republican opponent, carried California by a narrow margin in 1960, then lost to Brown last year in a bid for governor.

Asked if he thinks Nixon is finished in politics, Brown said, "I cannot believe as a member of the politicians union that Mr. Nixon is through at 50. This is hard for me to believe."

He suggested reporters wishing further information about Nixon should go to a better source because "he and I have never been close."

Brown said he has a warm regard for Republican Rockefeller and, "I often wished during the recent campaign that I had been debating the problems of state government with a man of the experience and conviction of Gov. Rockefeller."

"I am convinced that the people of California would have benefited far more from such an exchange because it would have dealt with real and not imaginary issues," he said, in a rap at Nixon's campaign tactics.

Brown said he differed from Rockefeller in several areas, one of which is public borrowing. He said Rockefeller claimed in his budget message last month he had avoided public borrowing and thereby maintained fiscal responsibility.

The California governor said he opposes borrowing for current expenses, but "sound growth bond issues have proved a key factor in California's growth."

Dutch Liner Rams Wreck; No One Hurt

BREMERHAVEN, Germany — (UPI) — A Dutch ocean liner, coming into port through a dense fog, rammed into submerged wreckage Friday, and 450 passengers and crewmen abandoned ship in lifeboats.

No one was injured. Many Americans were aboard.

The 15,024-ton Holland-America liner Maasdam ripped a long gash in its hull when it hit the wreck of a Russian ship that Soviet authorities have refused to move.

The accident occurred as an official welcoming party assembled at the dock to greet the Maasdam on its maiden voyage to Bremerhaven, point of arrival and departure for many American G.I.'s and their dependents stationed in Germany.

The hundreds of passengers and most of the crew were removed from the ship, and a skeleton crew brought the listing liner into port. The welcoming ceremony was called off.

With foghorns blasting to signal nearby ships, the Maasdam captain ordered passengers to abandon ship. It was 8:05 a.m. and most were in their cabins when the collision shook the liner. They scrambled out on deck and climbed into wooden lifeboats, with women and children going first.

Although visibility was extremely poor when the lifeboats were lowered into the cold waters of the Weser River estuary, within minutes two small German vessels had picked up all passengers.

Holland-America officials said a harbor pilot was aboard the ship when it struck the wreck of the Soviet freighter Kholmogory, which has been a hazard to shipping since it sank in the broad estuary in 1959.

West German authorities have attempted many times to have the Russians remove the wreck, or to give them permission to take it away themselves. But the Russians have refused, and the wreck lies outside the three-mile limit and thus is not in German territory.

Two men received jail sentences and a number of others were fined on theft counts in Monroe city court Friday by Judge W. M. Harper.

Judge Harper ruled J. W. Futch, of 507 Stubbs Ave., to four months on a theft count of $10 and another seven months on a $15 theft charge. The judge specified that the terms are not to run concurrently, and he also revoked a probation on which Futch was free and ordered the six months sentence that had been previously imposed an earlier theft count excused.

Another Monroe man, Wayne Williams, of 103 S. College Ave., was sentenced to four months in jail on each of two separate counts of theft by check, with the terms not to run concurrently.

The fund council, headed by Paul G. Hoffman, authorized the Cuban project Wednesday after nearly two years' delay. About 40 per cent of the fund is furnished by the U.S., although Hoffman claimed in one report no U.S. money would go into the Cuba operation.

The six-month Cuban project is designed to find means of diversifying the island's farm economy. The U.S. in the past has insisted such projects should be located solely on the basis of economic feasibility, without political considerations.

"I cannot in good conscience feel anything but that the United States will find itself in the impossible position of being the greatest contributor to the United Nations, yet commanding

Oaklawn Park Opens For 43 Days Saturday

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Oaklawn Park opens its 43-day race meeting Saturday with the featuring Inaugural Handicap split into two divisions for the second straight year, when 27 horses were entered.

The race originally carried a purse of $10,000 but each of the twin features will offer $7,500. Ten horses will start in the first section and 11 in the second.

Both races will mark a renewal of the rivalry between owner-trainer W. Hal Bishop and Marion H. Van Berg, who were first and second respectively in saddling winners at Oaklawn last year. Bishop went on to become the nation's leader.

Van Berg will be represented in both events by two-horse entries but Bishop, who originally nominated five, decided on a single colorbearer in each section.

Space Commander, 7-year-old son of Tom Fool and Four Winds, and Rose's Gem will represent all ships in the area to be on the lookout... so there is a slim chance, although it is a mighty eling at about 15 miles an hour, which would mean it would have gone about 450 miles in the first 30 hours after the Navy entered the search.

U.S. Scours Caribbean For Vessel

The Pentagon would not say how many aircraft and surface vessels, including carriers and destroyers, were assigned to the hunt.

It was indicated they came from both Puerto Rico and the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo on the eastern tip of Cuba.

These Navy units, in what was called a "head-on-off-the-pass" drive, moved into several key passages.

They included the area between Honduras and Jamaica, the Jamaican Passage between the east end of that island and Haiti, the Mona Passage between the Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico, and another passage opening into the Atlantic southeast of Puerto Rico.

Still unanswered was what action the American searchers will take if they spot the vessel. Apparently this will depend on circumstances.

They could intercept and take control of the ship, but the preferred course seemed to be to trail the freighter until Venezuelans could arrive and take over.

State Department informants said that when the ship is located the first step by search craft will be to tell the Venezuelans.

"The prospects are good for finding the ship," one official said.

"The chance of it getting through to Cuba, if that's where it's going, are remote"—presumably that meant the ship is bound to be spotted by the surveillance which has ringed Cuba since the blockade.

The U.S. assistance to Venezuela, at the request of President Romulo Betancourt's government, began Thursday, but was not confirmed by the Pentagon until Friday—as demands for such action resounded from Congress.

Some senators denounced the seizure Tuesday of the freighter by Communists as piracy of the high seas—a term applied to it by Venezuela—and said the United States should see that the terrorists are punished.

Some senators apparently represented the Communist boast that they had seized the freighter to dramatize their fight to persuade Betancourt to cancel his trip to Washington next week for talks with President Kennedy. Betancourt has shown no signs of yielding to the demand, despite mounting terrorism in some Venezuelan cities.

The Venezuelan ambassador, Enrique Tejera-Paris, talked with the President this morning. Afterward he told newsmen his country had requested the cooperation of other nations as well as the United States in apprehending the Anzoategui in accordance with international law.

Tejera-Paris said a report that the ship had been sighted Thursday by U.S. Navy planes was erroneous.

The ambassador called at the White House to present his credentials, but indicated the hijacking was discussed. Tejera-Paris said, "The President and I have a mutual love for the sea, and we did speak about maritime matters."

But he gave no specifics except to say other nations had been asked.

The Pentagon declined to say how many U.S. ships and planes are being used in the search. Nor would the spokesman say specifically where they are searching.

Normally, a score or more American warships operate in training exercises and shake-down cruises at all times in the area. They include aircraft carriers, destroyers, transports and submarines.

Friday's announcement said the Joint Chiefs of Staff have instructed Adm. Robert L. Dennison, Atlantic Fleet commander in chief, to help in the hunt. Persistent questions by newsmen about such help Thursday had been tossed back and forth between the Defense and State Departments, without a firm reply from either.

The Defense Department said Friday it was taking over handling information on the search.

At the State Department, press officer Lincoln White said Venezuela had asked for assistance in finding the ship.

White declined to get involved in what he called crystal ball gazing about whether American searchers might do more than locate the Anzoategui.

Sens. John Sparkman, D-Ala., and Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, both members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, termed the seizure "piracy on the high seas."

Another member of the foreign relations committee, Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, said "it is quite shocking that the seized ship is speeding toward a Cuba port."

"I don't know what the government is going to do about it. All I know is that all is not well in Cuba nor in the Western Hemisphere."

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI)—The Israel Writers Association announced Friday it has invited the controversial Soviet poet Evgeny Yevtushenko, to visit Israel. Yevtushenko has gained fame with a series of anti-Stalinist poems and the poem, "Babi Yar," an attack of anti-Semitism.

have seen at the polio center in Shreveport.

But as of now he walks around the Mims house on his all-fours. From a sitting position the boy—who is extremely healthy and vigorous in every respect except his legs—will push himself up on both feet and join the other children.

Mrs. Mims said Gregory's favorite toy is a plastic car which he is never without. She said it even made the long trip to Shreveport after he was stricken.

Gregory has crutches but Mrs. Mims said he doesn't use them and won't use them. Besides his braces, and the unusual crutches, Gregory still receives hot bath treatments three times a week at the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center.

Mrs. Mims said she had no idea what the illness had cost her family but did say the braces alone cost $200. Fortunately for them, the family has not had to bear all the financial burden.

Gregory, who was born in Idaho, and came here when his parents returned to Monroe, had a hard few months last summer. He was bitten by a dog in June and then later had measles. Then in August, polio struck.

Mrs. Mims said at first his foot started to swell and they thought he had merely hurt it some way. She said there was no bruise and the family was not too concerned. On Thursday night, she said, he was active, playing and happy. Friday morning he couldn't walk.

This is a cruel thing for a child who can't understand why he can't get out of bed and play with his brothers and sisters. But Gregory has adjusted. He enjoys his surroundings very much and is loved by his brothers and sisters. They have all had Gregory's illness explained to them and understand it as well as small children can.

Mrs. Mims said the pressure is not too severe except that now she is more confined than before. But she doesn't mind that. It's the child she is concerned about. She said that doctors had her that with his determination there is a possibility Gregory can walk again. So there is hope.

About the Sabin vaccine, she said most of her children wanted to go back this Sunday for a second dose. They liked the sugar. She said she had convinced them they couldn't go back Sunday but she had this closing thought for those who haven't already had the immunization:

"I surely hope they'll all take it. They just don't understand if they don't."

Court Studying Negro's Bid To Enter Ole Miss

ATLANTA (UPI)—The U.S. Fifth Court of Appeals Friday took under advisement the case of Dewey Greene Jr., a 22-year-old Negro who is seeking to become the second member of his race to be admitted to the University of Mississippi.

Counsel for Greene pleaded the case for 2½ hours—urging the court to admit Greene on an "emergency" basis.

Attorney William Kuntsler told the court that Greene was being denied admission to the school because of his race.

He said the university is just as segregated now as it ever was, and that the school has not changed its policies despite the forced admission of another Negro, James H. Meredith.

The arguments Friday were solely on the matter of "emergency" relief—which would put Greene in the university immediately, should he get a favorable decision.

Should the court turn him down on the immediate admission, he would still file a formal appeal on the overall merits of his case.

Full Hearing Indicated

In informal beach discussions Friday the court indicated it would prefer to try the whole case rather than grant relief on the emergency admission.

This would keep Greene out of "Ole Miss" until at least the summer session.

Kuntsler's contention the school was still segregated was challenged by Judge Griffin Bell, one of three jurists hearing the case of Greene. James H. Meredith.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pierre Salinger, the White House press secretary who decided hiking was not for portly gents like himself, was presented Friday with a "retired walker's survival kit" featuring a half-gallon of cognac.

Salinger, who canceled plans for an early morning hike today up the C&O Canal Towpath because "my shape is not good," was asked if he thought the kit might be of help.

"That will keep me going, all right," Salinger replied.

15 Louisiana Walkers Finish 50 Mile Hike

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Robert Wagner, last of 15 men to finish a 50-mile hike, plodded in agony to triumph here Friday at 12:33 p.m.

He was 5 hours and 18 minutes behind the winner, Pfc C. W. Bill Wilson, 22-year-old Marine reservist who took 14 hours.

Wagner, 33, newsman for WDSU-TV, New Orleans, had an official time of 19 hours 18 minutes. He actually had a delayed start after taking pictures and interviewing others on the hike.

Wagner said a "state of hypnosis" finally made him unaware of his aching feet and muscles.

Thirty-two men started the hike near Darrow, south of here, at 5:15 p.m. Thursday.

The youngest hiker was 15-year-old high school athlete Ronnie Dyer, son of State Rep. Jack Dyer, of East Baton Rouge Parish.

Dyer, 33, was frozen to a couch where he made the mistake of lying down at the finish.

"It was a foolish stunt," Dyer admitted. "I just ain't in the shape I was years ago."

Dyer once was a champion boxer for Louisiana State University.

STORMS KILL 152

TOKYO (UPI)—The national police agency reported Friday that 152 persons are known to have died as the result of a three-week siege of snowstorms in western Japan. Police said nine other persons are missing.

White declined to get involved in what he called crystal ball gazing about whether American searchers might do more than locate the Anzoategui.

Union members vote on the settlement Saturday. It was not certain that the men in jail would be allowed to vote.

The agreement calls for both sides to accept a decision to be handed down by a three-man board consisting of a union representative, a company representative and an impartial member to be named by the government.

Meanwhile, the union called for a royal commission to investigate the battle Monday at Kapuskasing, Ont., when non-union bushworkers, called settlers, shot and killed three strikers who were part of a force of 400 men marching on the settlers' woodpiles.

Some 350 strikers are in Montezuma Prison Farm awaiting a hearing on rioting charges, and 19 settlers have been charged with premeditated murder and are held in Haileybury, Ont., jail for a court appearance Feb. 19.

Paring Knives Are Recovered From Inmates

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—Sixteen paring knives were inadvertently distributed by guards to inmates at Elmira Reformatory on Monday but were recovered without incident two days later, it was disclosed Friday.

Reformatory officials said the knives were premiums in 86 boxes of dried milk purchased from a local grocer for resale to the inmates at the reformatory commissary.

Two guards, not normally assigned to the commissary, sold 16 boxes before officials said it was discovered that each box contained a knife. The knives had a 2½-inch stainless-steel blade.

Some knives were surrendered voluntarily, officials said. Others were recovered after searches.

The guards who distributed the knives made a normal mistake, officials said.

Approximately 1,400 young men are at the reformatory.

Southern Pine Plywood Industry Is Possibility

World Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON—Breakthrough in opening a major new side industry by production of Southern pine plywood is expected within four months, it was learned Friday.

At least five large corporations are working to establish commercial standards for the new type of plywood. Agreement on these specifications—barring an unexpected hitch—is due this spring and should open the way for large-scale construction.

The development follows more than 18 months of research at forest service laboratories in New Orleans and Alexandria, as well as the giant forest products research laboratory in Madison, Wis., aimed at finding a Southern pine plywood that would compete with the Douglas fir product made on the west coast.

Douglas fir, which is still being cut from virgin timber stands, partment, is the increasing availability of large-size Southern pine along with Texas, Arkansas, Alabama and Georgia. Research on actual production of Southern pine plywood is sandwich." Development of plywood industry will encourage Southern growers to work for larger-size timber. Scientist in Louisiana concentrated in field work to determine strength factors and density of large Southern pine logs.

The Alexandria research laboratory was granted $450,000 by Congress last year for work mainly on Southern pine, partly through the insistence of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee. He is 30 years, Boyle states, but pine planning to seek an additional plywood can find a large market. $450,000 to complete the structure Louisiana has some of the largest logs this year.

New Manhunt Is Sparked For Major's Slayer

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, The Congo (UPI)—The discovery of apparent clues to the slaying of an Indian army major nearly two years ago sparked a new manhunt Friday.

United Nations troops searched the Kolwezi area for the Katangese captain believed to have killed Maj. Singh of the Indian U.N. force near Elisabethville in March, 1961. His body never was found.

The Singh case was reopened after the discovery of the badges and shoulder patches of an Indian army major in the quarters of a Katangese gendarme captain in Kolwezi. The captain fled when UN troops moved into the Katangese stronghold. Investigators learned he had been in charge of a gendarme company in the Elisabethville area at the time of Singh's disappearance.

Singh and his driver were seized by Katangese commandos. The bullet-riddled body of the driver was found a few days later. But until the Indian army insignia was discovered, there were no traces of what might have happened to Singh.

Polio Make-Up

Last Sunday 53,322 citizens of Ouachita Parish joined hands with the Ouachita Parish Medical Society and the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce in an effort to drive polio out of Ouachita Parish. This Sunday it is hoped that an additional 30,000 will do the same. For that is the number of immunizations still needed to reach the 85 per cent figure that will assure the parish's being rid of the dread disease.

The Jaycees and doctors have done their part by administering the Sabin oral vaccine on a parish-wide basis. And now they are going the extra mile in offering make-up clinics to give those who missed the first feeding a chance to be immunized. Other make-up feedings have been given to shut-ins this week.

This Sunday eight clinics will be open. The Medical Society has stated how vital it is for everyone to take the vaccine. While the Sabin vaccine — which is an injection — will keep an individual safe, Sabin will eliminate the possibility of a person being a carrier, virtually destroying the threat of polio.

The cost of the mass immunization to the individual is nominal with donations requested at each clinic. The Jaycees have underwritten the project and no one will be refused vaccination if they cannot afford to donate to the fund. A contribution of at least 25 cents is asked for each individual taking the vaccine which is extremely reasonable considering the cost if immunization is achieved through a private physician. Cost for a family of six for the entire series would be about $54. Under this program, it would only cost $1.50.

So, don't let cost deter you. If you can afford to donate at least 25 cents, please do so. If you cannot, there will be no embarrassment. Cost is not a factor in this campaign.

Thus, there is really no excuse for the remaining 30,000 persons needed not to be immunized. The Morning World wants to take this opportunity to urge everyone to help rid our parish of polio and to make the area safe for our neighbors and children. Take the oral vaccine Sunday.

Five Colorful Men

Five colorful men — some puzzling, some destructive — have been in an odd sort of link-up in recent months. Aptly enough, in this strange situation, the Detroit News sees a way in which the United States could well slash its foreign aid budget.

These men are G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state in charge of African affairs, who probably got that position because the New Frontier wanted him in Africa; Premier Ben Bella of Algeria, who received a red carpet welcome and a grand salami from the president of the United States; President Kennedy, who not only gave Ben Bella the royal welcome but stood behind him when they had their pictures made together — something he is believed never to have done with anyone else since he has been president; Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba, whom Ben Bella hugged, praised and upheld in his campaign of vituperation against the United States; and President Charles de Gaulle of France, who has the United States, England and a few other countries pouting because of his aloofness.

What a quintet! Well, they are all linked up in a way.

Williams, on his third African diplomatic safari, which he must find more relaxing than Lansing weekends, has pledged continued support of Algeria's drive to recover from the civil war, despite the fact that President Kennedy loved Ben Bella and then Ben Bella loved Castro more than he loved Kennedy. "Soapy" should have a care about the extent of his commitments.

It is a little hard for most of us to forget how Ben Bella stood in front of President Kennedy, as if he were a bigger man, and then embraced Castro and declared the United States should give up its Guantanamo base.

For years Ben Bella has been telling France to give up its bases in Algeria, so he was not inconsistent.

A majority of the House Ways and Means Committee, which is considering this major legislation, is against tackling the proposed reforms this session. Representative Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman, does favor that, but he is in the minority in this crucial committee.

That's what the President has been told by the top Democratic congressional leaders.

At his weekly meeting with them, they were unanimous in frankly conveying this gloomy report. In the course of it, they also made it clear they have no stomach to try to ram through the so-called reform part of his package tax bill. They consider such an effort futile and doomed to failure.

The President listened to this bad news in silence. Finally, he indicated he would discuss the matter with Treasury Secretary Dillon, who is leading the fight for the package bill.

"Why do you say that?" asked the President.

Hidden Dangers

Just Feeling Well Is No Guarantee

Person Is Really Well

Often you hear people say, "I feel fine. What's the sense of going to a doctor to invite trouble and spend your good, hard-earned money?" On the face of it, this seems like sound reasoning: "I feel well so I must be well." Unfortunately, this isn't always true. I'm afraid that to know — and not to guess — about your health, you'll still have to put the true answer up to your doctor. Consider the following:

Dear Dr. Steinrohn: My husband is six feet seven inches and weighs over 200. He is a heavy eater and an alcoholic. About three months ago he had an Army physical examination which showed a two-plus sugar and a four-plus acetone reaction in his urine. They advised him to see his doctor, which he refuses to do. Just says he feels fine, why go? Can you tell me what this condition means and how important treatment is? — Mrs. R.

Comment: What it means is that he probably has diabetes mellitus. And the acetone is his urine indicates that it is getting serious enough to cause an upset in the balance between the acids and alkali in the blood. Untreated, the next step may be really severe acidosis followed by coma (unconsciousness).

Your husband has other reasons for going to the doctor. He is not only overweight but has the problem of chronic alcoholism to contend with. In spite of all these threats against his life, he feels well. This false sense of security (because there is no pain or other discomfort) greases the skids to oblivion for many people. Keep remembering that to feel well is no guarantee of being well.

From what I understand, it is still in experimental stages.

Dear Dr. Steinrohn: A friend of mine suffered from colds, bursitis and throat infection. Antibiotics didn't help. Then doctors prescribed a special antibiotic which she took for about a month. She began to feel weak. A study of her blood showed that she is very anemic and will have to have injections and transfusions for three years to stay alive. Would you say that a permanent cure is possible? — Mrs. T.

This case history underlines the dangers of taking some medicines without constant supervision — which includes taking blood studies early and late — to make sure the medicine is not harming the blood — forming elements in normal bone.

Sudden Long-Walk Campaign Can Be Described As Mere Fad

It used to be swallowing goldfish, crunching phonograph records, or crowding into telephone booths. Now it's hiking. To be somebody you've got to show that you can walk for long distances, preferably up the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal which runs out of Washington. The Washington parkers are full of it.

There are advantages to this new fad. It keeps you out of doors. Though it may not provide the physical fitness that President Kennedy was seeking when he prescribed 50-mile jaunts, it won't get you into trouble unless you've got a bad heart or get a tetanus infection from a blister on your foot.

Far be it from me to spoil sport. That Old Rough Rider, Teddy Roosevelt, expected the troops to make those 50 miles in three days — and President Kennedy has merely revived the idea. But I can't understand what all the excitement is about — and it makes me believe that Mr. Kennedy is correct when he deplores the fitness of the current generation.

It was a little shocking to me to read about the jubilation at various Marine Corps camps when a group of officers had trekked their 50 miles in 20 hours. I saw pictures of those Leathernecks. They carried no more on their backs than their clothes — and even so some of them were nursing bruised feet and pointing to their blisters.

I'm not so old that I can shake my finger and cackle about the good old days, or about the feats of my own generation. But I did serve in World War II. Along with millions of others, I took basic training and the other battle conditioning courses, know what was expected of us as a matter of course and with no heroes. I was Army, and we considered ourselves a lot tougher than the fly boys, but soft when compared to the Marines.

But maybe this has been forgotten. I hold tremendous admiration for the fighting qualities of the Marine Corps. But I can't forget the pictures of the Marines who took President Kennedy's dare. You'd think they'd just climbed Mount Everest.

President Kennedy is absolutely right about the need for physical fitness and about the softness of many young people today. I hope he sees to it that every soldier and sailor in the Armed Forces can take the TR prescription. But let's not make it a fad. For several days, the exploits of Administration hikers have filled up almost as much newspaper as the debate on tax reform. The stamina of our troops — and our young people — is a deadly serious business. It shouldn't be treated as some kind of sport.

Polio Make-Up

Last Sunday 53,322 citizens of Ouachita Parish joined hands with the Ouachita Parish Medical Society and the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce in an effort to drive polio out of Ouachita Parish. This Sunday it is hoped that an additional 30,000 will do the same. For that is the number of immunizations still needed to reach the 85 per cent figure that will assure the parish's being rid of the dread disease.

The Jaycees and doctors have done their part by administering the Sabin oral vaccine on a parish-wide basis. And now they are going the extra mile in offering make-up clinics to give those who missed the first feeding a chance to be immunized. Other make-up feedings have been given to shut-ins this week.

This Sunday eight clinics will be open. The Medical Society has stated how vital it is for everyone to take the vaccine. While the Salk vaccine — which is an injection — will keep an individual safe, Sabin will eliminate the possibility of a person being a carrier, virtually destroying the threat of polio.

The cost of the mass immunization to the individual is nominal with donations requested at each clinic. The Jaycees have underwritten the project and no one will be refused vaccination if they cannot afford to donate to the fund. A contribution of at least 25 cents is asked for each individual taking the vaccine which is extremely reasonable considering the cost if immunization is achieved through a private physician. Cost for a family of six for the entire series would be about $54. Under this program, it would only cost $4.50.

So, don't let cost deter you. If you can afford to donate at least 25 cents, please do so. If you cannot, there will be no embarrassment. Cost is not a factor in this campaign.

Thus, there is really no excuse for the remaining 30,000 persons needed not to be immunized. The Morning World wants to take this opportunity to urge everyone to help rid our parish of polio and to make the area safe for our neighbors and children. Take the oral vaccine Sunday.

Five Colorful Men

Five colorful men — some puzzling, some destructive — have been in an odd sort of link-up in recent months. Aptly enough, in this strange situation, the Detroit News sees a way in which the United States could well slash its foreign aid budget.

These men are G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, assistant secretary of state in charge of African affairs, who probably got that position because the New Frontier wanted him in Africa; Premier Ben Bella of Algeria, who received a red carpet welcome and a grand salaam from the president of the United States; President Kennedy, who not only gave Ben Bella the royal welcome but stood behind him when they had their pictures made together — something he is believed never to have done with anyone else since he has been president; Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba, whom Ben Bella, hugged, praised and upheld in his campaign of vituperation against the United States, and President Charles de Gaulle of France, who has the United States, England and a few other countries pouting because of his aloofness.

What a quintet! Well, they are all linked up in a way.

Williams, on his third African diplomatic safari, which he must find more relaxing than Lansing weekends, has pledged continued support of Algeria's drive to recover from the civil war, despite the fact that President Kennedy has been told by the top Democratic congressional leaders.

At his weekly meeting with them, they were unanimous in frankly conveying this gloomy report. In the course of it, they also made it clear they have no stomach to try to ram through the so-called reform part of his package tax bill. They consider such an effort futile and doomed to failure.

The President listened to this bad news in silence. Finally, he indicated he would discuss the matter with Treasury Secretary Dillon, who is leading the fight for the package bill.

"I am extremely anxious to get a tax cut this year," the President said. "That's vital to stimulate our lagging economy."

De Gaulle has always maintained that Algeria's plight was France's responsibility. Now he is trying to associate Algeria with the Common Market, from which he excludes our friends. As he has accepted responsibility and, even after his nuclear force expenses, has funds to spare for the job, we should let him do it, especially since he loves Kennedy better than he loves Ben Bella, in spite of all the foreign aid he has received from us.

Confession Controversy

A so-called "confession" bill which has been passed by the state senate in Tennessee and reportedly was near house passage has suddenly become a target of law-enforcement officers.

Opposing the measure, the Memphis Commercial Appeal said in part:

"Legislation which could do much to make confessions worthless scraps of paper is being slipped through in Nashville almost without notice."

The bill, which has already been passed by the senate, provides that an attorney for the defendant can obtain copies of all confessions, written or oral, prior to a trial.

The bill outlining the requirement that copies of confessions be given to defendants and their attorneys was introduced by Representative Hugh Stanton Jr., whose father is Shelby County's long-time public defender.

It is a well-known fact that the most potent confessions are made by first offenders who may have committed some crime in the heat of passion or who were under extreme pressure. Many of these defendants are confused when arrested and confronted with the evidence against them and feel there is no more hope in life for them and are hardly aware of what they are saying when they make a confession.

"All the breaks, as we said, go to the law-breaker."

There is much truth in this statement and there is little wonder that law enforcement officers don't want their task made any harder. Yet, there are two sides to every question and we doubt that, in this case, any attempt was being made to make things easier for the hardened criminal. It seems to be intended more to help first offenders who jeopardize their rights by making statements which they would never make if they were to see an attorney first. It really gives the first offender about the same break that the habitual criminal takes for himself.

To do any good, a tax cut should be passed not later than July. That can't be done by trying to tag on tax reforms."

Senator Smathers was equally emphatic.

"My information is that the House won't act on a tax measure until June," he said. "In that event, there will be no tax bill at all unless your package bill is divided into two measures."

The Treasury Department is preparing a number of examples in an effort to persuade Congress to approve plugging one loophole — allowing unlimited deductions for charity. One instance the Department will cite is the case of a taxpayer with an income of more than $1 million who escaped paying taxes by giving away most of it in the form of stock which he originally bought at around $60,000.

As proposed by the President, deductions for charitable contributions would be limited to 30 per cent of income.

Politicals — Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., has sounded out Senator Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., on whether he would oppose his appointment as Undersecretary of Commerce. Keating indicated he would not — although it's an open secret Roosevelt aspires to run against Keating next year. The inside word is that Roosevelt was named to the Commerce job to build him up for the race . . .

Former Vice President Nixon is telling friends he will do considerable foreign traveling this year, during which he will interview governmental leaders and write articles and do a series of TV broadcasts. Nixon also says he intends to keep active in national politics, but isn't disclosing how and in what capacity . . . Members of the staff of Representative Claude Pepper, D-Fla., have been instructed to call him "Senator" Pepper served two terms in the Senate years ago, and still aspires to return there.

There appears to be overwhelming sentiment in Congress for tax reduction — provided a simultaneous effort is made to hold down unessential government spending.

But Administration plans call for soaring government expenditures — at the same time that it wants a $13.6 billion tax cut. There is determined congressional resistance.

As a result of the Administration's massive deficit spending plans, a bi-partisan movement is under way in both the House and the Senate with the avowed goal of cutting Mr. Kennedy's proposed spending program for the 1964 fiscal year (beginning next July 1) by between $8 billion and $12 billion.

One of the key legislators heading up the campaign is Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.) chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. He advocates an $8 billion cut.

MASSIVE SPENDING FEARED

Apprehension is felt by many on Capitol Hill that, if the wrong kind of tax program should be enacted and the present unsatisfactory growth rate of the economy continues, Mr. Kennedy might then turn to a program based on even greater government spending than he now proposes.

A threat of such action is seen in Mr. Kennedy's statement, in his State of the Union Message, that:

"I do not say that a measure for tax reduction and reform is the only way to achieve these goals. No doubt a massive increase in federal spending could also create jobs and growth — but, in today's setting, private consumers, employers and investors should be given a full opportunity first."

Government officials have more spending programs already available. In fact, Budget Director Gordon has stressed that $7 billion to $8 billion was trimmed from initial requests by government departments and agencies outside the defense - space field before the 1964 budget was submitted to Congress. Defense Secretary McNamara was said to

Opposition To Many Of Proposed Reforms Is Widespread

The Administration's tax program appears to be in real difficulty in Congress — But the Kennedy forces are waging an all-out battle to obtain approval of as much of it as possible.

There is widespread opposition to many of the proposed "reforms" particularly the one to limit itemized deductions to those which exceed 5 per cent of adjusted gross income.

There is grave apprehension over Secretary of the Treasury Dillon's forecast that the spending program which President Kennedy will recommend for the 1963 fiscal year (beginning July 1, 1964) "most likely will exceed the $100 billion level."

There appears to be overwhelming sentiment in Congress for tax reduction — provided a simultaneous effort is made to hold down unessential government spending.

Hero Flown To Ft. Sill To Face Charges

FT. SILL, Okla. (UPI) — A World War II veteran who charged a Japanese patrolman and killed 60 enemy soldiers, firing a machine gun from his hip until his platoon caught up with him was flown to Ft. Sill Friday to face charges of desertion.

Wilson Douglas Watson, 41-year-old veteran of the Army, Air Force and Marines who won the Medal of Honor for his feats on Iwo Jima, was arrested Thursday at Marked Tree, Ark.

He was working as a mess sergeant at Ft. Rucker, Ala., when he "just got tired of it all" and left last October.

Watson was a private in the Marine Corps when he won the nation's highest award for leading an attack on two Japanese bunkers entrenched on Iwo Jima Feb. 26-27, 1945.

Robert Warren, a jailer at Marion, Ark., who said he knew Watson as a boy, said:

"He told me he just got tired of it all. He said they (the Army) had got his record all messed up. He got fed up, got in his car and drove off."

Watson said he and Watson at-tended the same school.

"I guess he was about as big of a hero as you can get," he said.

Agents Holding Honduran After Orleans Arrest

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Customs agents held a Honduran citizen Friday who was arrested while preparing to board a ship with a small arsenal—26 pistols, rifles and 25 boxes of ammunition.

The federal agents identified the man as Pedro Rosales-Pavon, 38, of La Ceiba, Honduras.

Customs agents checked him after they saw him drive a car loaded with packages onto a wharf. They found the arms in the packages.

They said he was about to board the Priamios, a ship bound for Honduras.

Agents quoted him as saying he was taking the arms to La Ceiba to give to friends.

Impact Of Sales Tax Is Outlined

BATON ROUGE (Special) — shows that in income groups from $4,000 a year to $16,000, the total consideration should be given the ex-burden of these taxes varies tent to which the property tax slightly above and below four per cent of the income.

If federal taxes are included in the total of taxes paid, PAR then said the proportion of income paid in all taxes rises as income rises.

In summary, PAR pointed out that the sales tax, when considered alone, is more burdensome on the very low income groups and lighter on the very high income groups.

When the tax is considered in relation to the incomes which people have to spend, after all taxes and various fixed costs not subject to a sales tax are excluded, the relative burden paid by persons in different income groups does not differ greatly.

One of the major reasons why local governments have turned to the sales tax, PAR stated, is the "de-emphasis of the property tax in Louisiana," with 23 per cent of state and local taxes in Louisiana being derived from the property tax compared to 46 per cent for the nation.

The pattern of low assessments on homes, use of homestead exemption to remove the tax burden from the homeowner, and higher assessments on certain other properties have weakened the property tax as a source of revenue, as well as creating inequities," PAR said.

Sales taxes are not easy to pass. Since 1951, eight tax at-day attempts in the state have been beaten down. Monroe voters turned thumbs down on a sales tax proposal on November 27, 1956.

Lake Charles voters beat down tax attempts three times, once in 1953, again in 1958 and finally in 1962.

But 20 municipalities have passed them, including Tallulah, Northeast Louisiana.

"For most local governments in Louisiana, proper administration of the property tax will alleviate the need for a new tax source," PAR said.

"In some communities, however, a new tax source may be necessary as the only method of meeting financial needs. In all cases, careful study should be made to determine the best course of action," PAR continued.

A bone of major contention, said PAR, is that the burden of this tax is heavier on persons with low income than on persons with high income.

Citing the sales tax deduction allowed in Louisiana by the U. S. Treasury Department in computing the federal income tax, PAR said that "the majority of Louisianians and families pay about the same proportion of their gross income for the sales tax."

According to PAR, 59 per cent of Louisiana families had incomes ranging from $3,000 a year to $10,000 in 1959, and the state sales tax burden ranges from 1.51 per cent of their income to 1.24 per cent.

PAR said further the impact of one tax should not be considered by itself but should also be studied in relation to other taxes. The burden of a tax may be greater on one group than another, yet this may be offset by another tax thereby producing equity in the tax structure.

PAR cited one of its recent studies of the burden of state and local taxes in Baton Rouge which reported the theft.

WILL BURY CAPITALISM'

Red Giants Tied Together, Says Soviet Premier

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev linked the Soviet Union and Communist China as brothers who together will throw the last spadeful of earth on the grave of capitalism.

Plastering over the persistent barrel between the two Red giants, Khrushchev insisted Friday at Moscow and Peking now are tied together in "peace, friendship and brotherhood."

Warmly shaking hands with new Chinese ambassador Pan Tzu-i, Khrushchev declared: "When the last spadeful of earth is thrown in the grave of capitalism, we'll do it together with China." The Soviet leader, in ebullient mood, staged the impromptu brotherhood scene in one of his favorite locales for such performances—at a gala diplomatic reception.

His remarks were confined to Western correspondents and it appeared he only wanted the news spread in the West. Such informal remarks never are reported in the Communist press.

But since the entire diplomatic corps, Communist, capitalist and neutralist, was present at the party given by visiting King Savangathana of Laos, it was sure to be widely reported on the government level.

During the reception beneath the great crystal chandeliers of Hotel Sovetskaya restaurant, Khrushchev reverted to his old habit of calling Western correspondents over to his buffet table. Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko saw the chat begin and sought over Ambassador Pan, Khrushchev pumped one of Pan's hands while holding his other arm. Then he told the newsmen: "This is the Chinese ambassador."

"Friendship and cooperation," he added rather to get the ball rolling.

"Is this the beginning?" a reporter asked.

"No," Khrushchev answered. "Our cooperation has been going for a long time. It is continuing and it will continue."

Another correspondent asked "Is peace and friendship?"

"Peace and friendship," replied Khrushchev with a grin, "is something we reserve for capitalist countries. With the Soviet Union and China it is peace, friendship and brotherhood."

FT. SILL, Okla. (UPI) — A World War II veteran who charged a Japanese pillbox and killed 60 enemy soldiers firing a machine gun from his hip until his platoon caught up with him was flown to Ft. Sill Friday to face charges of desertion.

Wilson Douglas Watson, 41-year-old veteran of the Army, Air Force and Marines who won the Medal of Honor for his feats on Iwo Jima, was arrested Thursday at Marked Tree, Ark.

He was working as a mess sergeant at Ft. Rucker, Ala., when he "just got tired of it all" and left last October.

Watson was a private in the Marine Corps when he won the nation's highest award for leading an attack on two Japanese bunkers entrenched on Iwo Jima Feb. 26-27, 1945.

Robert Warren, a jailer at Marion, Ark., who said he knew Watson as a boy, said:

"He told me he just got tired of it all. He said they (the Army) had got his record all messed up. He got teed-off, got in his car and drove off."

Warren said he and Watson attended the same school.

"I guess he was about as big of a hero as you can get," he said.

Agents Holding Honduran After Orleans Arrest

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Customs agents held a Honduran citizen Friday who was arrested while preparing to board a ship with a small arsenal—26 pistols, 3 rifles and 25 boxes of ammunition.

The federal agents identified the man as Pedro Rosales-Pavon, 38, of La Ceiba, Honduras.

Customs agents checked him after they saw him drive a car loaded with packages onto a wharf. They found the arms in the packages.

They said he was about to board the Priamos, a ship bound for Honduras.

Agents quoted him as saying he was taking the arms to La Ceiba to give to friends.

Deputies Shoot Negro To Death

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A 35-year-old Negro was shot to death Thursday night after striking two Jefferson Parish deputies with a board.

Charles A. Hills, Kenner, La., was dead on arrival at Charity Hospital.

Jefferson Parish coroner Dr. Charles Odom said Hills was a former mental patient. Hills' wife had asked Thursday that he be given a mental examination.

The officers were trying to pick him up when a fight broke out. Hills allegedly grabbed a two-by-four plank and struck both officers before being shot.

Odom said, "these people are far more dangerous than a criminal because they don't realize the consequences of an act. As far as I know the circumstances, the officers were fully justified in that they were protecting themselves.

They said he was about to board the Priamos, a ship bound for Honduras.

Agents quoted him as saying he was taking the arms to La Ceiba to give to friends.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 2-16

Mardi Gras
Celebration

Mardi Gras will be celebrated on the Northeast Louisiana State College campus at a ball sponsored by Phi Delta Chi Pharmaceutical Fraternity on February 26 from 8 to 12 p.m. in Gunby Dining Hall.

A variety of music will be played by The Wheels orchestra. Phi Delta Chi last year initiated the Carnival ball at the college.

The Mardi Gras queen will be chosen by the fraternity but her identity will be kept secret until she is crowned at the dance by Northeast's President George T. Walker.

Another feature will be the selection of five beauties by campus vote on February 20 from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Tee winning coeds will reign with the queen over the night's festivities.

Special costumes and masks are expected to lend additional gaiety, according to the response given to last year's dance. Prizes will be awarded to students wearing the most attractive or original costumes. These will be judged by a committee of the faculty and staff.

Winner of the queen's title at the initial Phi Delta Chi Mardi Gras ball was Judy Cathey, sophomore health and physical education major, of West Monroe, who is currently affiliated with the Northeast Jazz Ensemble during its continental tour.

Capturing first prize for costume originality last year were Julia LeBlanc from Erath and Rodney Langlais from Abbeville.

Barnett Calls Special Session For Legislature

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett issued a proclamation Friday calling for a special session of the legislature Feb. 25.

The governor is expected to deliver a message to a joint session of the lawmakers when they convene and stress speedy work.

Up for consideration in the call Friday was legislation to put into effect the reapportionment plan approved by the voters Feb. 5.

The amendment to the state constitution would decrease the House from 140 to 122 members and increase the Senate from 49 to 52 members.

Also to be considered during the session is legislation to permit sheriffs to succeed themselves in counties where the office of sheriff and tax collector are separated.

Both topics have been approved by vote of the people but must be implemented by the legislature before becoming part of the Constitution.

Barnett has said no other legislation other than emergency will be submitted and he foresaw no emergency.

PLANT BEING BUILT

CHICAGO (UPI) — Extrude Film Corp. has begun construction of a plant in nearby Lake Zurich, it was announced Friday. President Albert Moss said the plant was being built to better serve Midwestern film converters with blown and cast polyolefin film. The company already has plants in operation in Pottsville, Pa., and Wentzville.

though no one seems to anticipate big territory to the Federals — such calamity."

Another reverse which Davis did not mention was the fall of Roanoke Island on the North Carolina coast.

A federal Army - Navy expedition, 65 vessels in all and four months in the making, had captured the island Feb. 8 in a sharp battle. The Confederates were commanded by Brig. Gen. Ambrose E. Burnside, landed on the 7th, assaulted the Confederate garrison on the 8th and won a short, sharp battle.

The Confederates were commanded by Brig. Gen. Henry Wise, former governor of Virginia, whose son, Lt. O. Jennings Wise, was fatally wounded in the Amherst Revolution.

Davis had been elected permanent president in November. The vote again was unanimous, just as it was when he was named provisional president in Montgomery, Alabama, a year before. His vice president again was Alexander H. Stephens of Georgia but already the political relations of the two men had cooled.

The permanent Confederate constitution had gone into effect four days before the inauguration. Modeled on the U.S. Constitution, the Confederate document made these notable changes:

1. State's rights were affirmed in the preamble and the Deity was mentioned.

2. Slavery was recognized by name instead of by the circumcision of "other persons" as in the U.S. Constitution but importation of slaves from abroad was prohibited.

3. Cabinet members were permitted to sit in the House and enter debates on questions affecting their departments.

4. Congress could appropriate money except for its own expenses, without a request from the President or a department head.

5. The President was given power to veto single items in appropriation bills.

6. The President was elected for a six-year term and was not eligible for re-election.

Nothing was said in the document about the right of secession by states. The Constitution makers said it was unnecessary.

The new Congress, House and Senate instead of the provisional one-house body, had met four days before Davis was inaugurated and he had before him as he was sworn in a measure giving him the power to suspend the writ of habeas corpus.

The gloom of the people who packed each inch of space around the ceremonial stand matched the gloom of the day.

Constance Cary, a Virginia belle who viewed the scene from a warm and dry room in the state library after a gay party, recorded that "the concourse of umbrellas in the square beneath us had the effect of an immense mush-room bed."

Davis in his inaugural address denounced President Lincoln because "military despotism" because Lincoln had suspended the habeas writ without congressional sanction. Davis boasted that no civil liberty had been curtailed in the South.

Years later, Mrs. Davis described her feelings at the ceremony:

"As he stood, pale and emaciated, dedicating himself to the service of the Confederacy, evidently forgetful of everything but his sacred oath, he seemed to me a willing victim going to his funeral pyre and the idea so affected me that making some excuse I regained my carriage and went home."

The diary-keeping war department clerk, John B. Jones went to the reception at the executive mansion that night and reported it as "lugubrious." Davis was "calm," Jones wrote, and Mrs. Davis "seemed in spirits," evidently recovered from her earlier depression.

Another episode had added to her moodiness. On the way to the ceremony she noted that her carriage was flanked by four Negroes in black and wearing white gloves. Asking the coachman why, the First Lady heard him say that was the way "we always do in Richmond at funerals and such-like." She immediately dismissed the footmen.

While Davis mentioned no specific reverses in his speech, he could have; for he had the news that Fort Donelson had fallen and most of its garrison captured along with stores of military supplies.

Richmond learned of the disaster only the next day. The news was hard to take because it followed immediately on false reports that the Confederates had won a brilliant victory at Donelson.

The fall of Donelson, preceded 10 days earlier by the capture of its twin bastion, Fort Henry, by the bombing gunboats of Flag Officer Andrew Foote, meant that the Confederate defense line from the Mississippi River had crumbled and faced abandonment.

The right anchor had collapsed with the Federal victory at Mill Springs, Kentucky, in January. Now Bowling Green, Kentucky, the center was being abandoned without a fight. Columbus, Kentucky, the western anchor and strong point on the bluffs of the Mississippi, was outflanked and could not stand alone.

Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, described by Davis as the South's No. 1 soldier had to find a new defense line and the only tenable one was along the south border of Tennessee.

The withdrawal was under way as Davis spoke in the rain.

Nashville, capital of Tennessee and one of the major cities in the South for munitions manufacture, lay wide open for the Federals to occupy when they wished. The rest of Tennessee was vulnerable.

Jones wrote in his diary, Feb. 25, "And Nashville must fall — al-convictions in Germany and Italy."

Neville Defeats Jonesboro In Crucial League Contest

Tigers Near 1st Double-A Crown

JONESBORO (Special) Neville's battling Bengals all but wrapped up their first double-A basketball district championship Friday night by clearing the last major obstacle, Jonesboro with a 53-50 victory.

The all-important contest, played before an overflowing crowd at Jonesboro's 2,000 seat gym, leaves with a 6-2 mark.

Neville jumped off to a 10-7 lead after one period against the Monroe Tigers five, but the home-town club came back in the second quarter to score 15 points to Neville's 13.

The intermission score read, 23-22, for Neville and for a rugged grand finale appeared ahead.

But Neville had different ideas and in the third quarter built up its biggest lead of the game, 36-26.

Neville's big Bill Davis fired in six points during the quick surge and also picked off several key rebounds.

Jonesboro could only manage eight points during the third while the hungry Neville crew picked up 15.

This probably spelled the difference of the contest, but Jonesboro would not quit and put on a strong rally in the final period.

Jonesboro hit for 20 points in the last quarter, mainly on the tremendous efforts of Johnny Shows, to nearly close the gap.

Shows was a tower of strength the entire contest for Jonesboro, and his 12 tallies in the final quarter capped it.

The bus senior led Jonesboro with 25 points and 11 rebounds.

His fine performance actually was about the only big thing Jonesboro fans had to yell about, other than a three point J-H lead in the second quarter, 20-17.

The hometown club's top scoring ace, Rich Bailey, played the contest with a fever and although he was able to play well on defense his scoring was off. He failed to hit a field goal but did manage two free tosses.

Guard Alden Reeves was second in scoring for Jonesboro with 13 points.

For Neville it was a clutch effort sparked by the Tigers' five "golden boys" who went all the way.

Joe Canal played his usual fine floor game and also led the winners with 14 points on four field goals and six free tosses.

Davis was second with 12 points. The transfer product from Virginia has come through all season for Neville and Friday night was no exception.

Guard Sam Caverlee, who began the season on the bench and soon earned a spot on the top five, poked in 10 tallies. Sam hit world indoor high jump record in the 1-AAA race between the Jackets (10-1) and league leading Fair Park (11-0).

Coach L. J. Fontenot's Lions slowed down in the first period, working for only good shots and managed a 5-4 lead in the first four minutes. However the rangy Jackets, paced by towering Bob Benfield's rebounding, managed to pull away to a 16-8 quarter margin.

The Best

No one can deny that the very best in the world of golf is Arnold Palmer—Everytime you wonder about who he wins another tournament. Somehow, somehow, he wins and wins and wins.

In a conversation taking place shortly after he won the Phoenix Open by a shot over Gary Player and two shots over Jack Nicklaus, Palmer reconfirmed his ambition about making the "Grand Slam"—That is, winning the National Open, the Masters, the PGA, and the British Open all in the same year—He said that for as long as he is able to compete for championships that the "Slam" will be his greatest desire.

If ever there is a man with the capacity to win 'em all, Arnold Palmer has it. So does Gary Player and so does Jack Nicklaus. Someday either Nicklaus or Player may become better suited to the task—Player looks as though he is really coming into his own this year for the first time as he is actually playing the best golf on the tour the he's won one, finished second in four, and finished eleventh in the other of the six this year) as his lofty perch atop the money winners indicates. Nicklaus has so much potential that it's hard to comprehend anyone having that much ability at his young age. But for now it's Palmer—he's THE best and if someone else takes that reputation from him—well, can YOU imagine anyone being THAT good?

The Age Of Golf

There have been lots of arguments as to the beginning of the game but the first written reference knowingly exists was a decree issued by the Scottish king James II in March of 1457. The decree declared the game illegal because it was interfering with the archery practice of the citizen army. A similar decree was issued thirty-three years prior to that declaring "futeball" illegal. The presumption is that golf became popular during those intervening years and yet it doesn't seem logical that the game could have grown to the proportions of being the national game in such a short period of time so the other presumption is that it was probably played with some degree of enthusiasm in Scotland at least as far back as the year 1400. Before 1400 seems highly improbable because continuous wars, economic struggles, and lack of communications within Scotland make so utilized a game unlikely.

The word "golf" is derived from the Germanic word "golf" meaning "chess". Other than the way the game originated, the game is essentially Scottish in character. Many historians think that the game is a cultured sport to have originated in Scotland at the time that it did without outside influence but appears to be no substantial evidence that it originated elsewhere. Forms of golf, however, were played in many countries—the Flemish game of chole was referred to golf in the sense that it was played cross-country with one ball and two mallets using designations such as a gate, pole, or tree as a goal.

There's the ancient Roman game of pugnica—"the game of the countrymen"—which was similar to golf in that the ball was like the golf ball of the 17th, 18th, and early 19th centuries, a leather bag stuffed with feathers and in turn was hit with a wooden stick.

So, from back through the ages comes our wonderful sport of today. Who can say what it will be like ages from now!

Important

We all know that Sunday is the only day that we can get to the golf course to play but if you are taking the Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine last week, please give up the necessary time to get to one of the many stations giving the vaccine so we can eradicate the terrible disease in this area—The vaccine may be your own or that of a loved one because you can be a carrier without having it yourself. The Sabin vaccine eliminates you as a carrier as well as giving you immunity to Polio. This Sunday between one and five p.m.—PLEASE!

THE OLD HAWK'

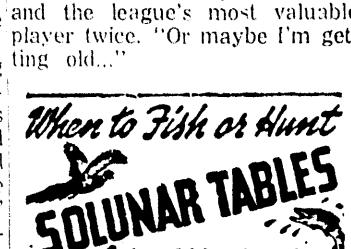

Age, Competition Don't Slow Pettit

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Neither old nor young can play defense, according to the St. Louis Hawks' coach, Bob Pettit. "We take only good shots," he said. "We have better balance and a better mark in the National Basketball Association."

"I don't have to go 46, 47 or 48 minutes every game," he said. "I never did like to do it, but I have to sometimes."

But Pettit still plays over 40 minutes every year, and he is getting better competition now.

"The players are getting better every year," said Pettit, who was the rookie of the year in 1954 and the league's most valuable player twice. "Or maybe I'm getting old..."

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Neither advancing age nor tougher competition have been able to slow up Al Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks. He recently passed the 17,000 shots mark in the National Basketball Association.

Royals' 6-foot-9 forward, now second behind Dolph Schayes in the race on the all-time NBA scoring list, is averaging almost 20 points a game this season and among the league leaders in rebounding.

"I don't know how many years I have left," says the 30-year-old Pettit, who has been all-pro in each of his nine years in the league. "I still feel real good."

But one year can make a big difference in this league, particularly for a big man. Forwards usually last only until they're 31 or 32 years old. And Pettit feels the deliberate offense and stress on defense installed by new coach Harry Gallion have helped him.

Trucks Leading Baseball Meet

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Virgil Trucks, former star pitcher who has never been close to the top in the Baseball Players Golf Tournament, used his daddy's advice in shooting a 1-over-par 71 Friday to take the lead with a 148 at the halfway point.

"I can thank my daddy, Matthew McClendon, for my game," said Trucks, now a coach for the Pittsburgh Pirates. "He read the greens perfectly for me."

Trucks bogeyed the first two holes and then turned to the 55-year-old McClendon. "I felt after my poor start that I needed help," Trucks said. He birdied all three of the par 5 holes on the 6,333-yard Miami Springs course and turned in a 37-34-71.

Defending champion Al Dark, manager of the San Francisco Giants and first round leader, carded a 76 for a 149 and second place. Albie Pearson of the Los Angeles Angels, who shared the first round lead with Dark, got 38-40-78 for fourth place with 151.

In the third spot was former Giant pitcher Jim Hearn, 1960 winner, who stroked a 38-37-150. Billy Herman, Boston Red Sox coach, fired two nines of 39 for 78 and a 36-hole total of 152 and fifth place.

"I feel wonderful about leading," said Trucks, "especially after all these years of trying. Only Paul Waner of the Hall of Fame has played in this tournament longer than I." Waner has been in the competition for 20 years.

Trucks, who pitched a no-hitter for the Kansas City Athletics, said McClendon "told me he used to carry for greats like Walter Hagen."

Trucks wasn't the only one to start slow. Dark, seeking his fifth title, bogeyed the first three holes. Pearson also bogeyed the first three.

"The whirl of the TV cameras bother me," he said.

Jackie Brandt, Baltimore outfielder, came in sixth with a 40-39-79 for a total of 154.

Five tied for seventh with 175. They were: Ralph Terry, Yankee pitcher; Al Lopez, Chicago manager; Al Vincent, Philadelphia

Richardson Out To Crack Into Ring Rankings

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Blair Richardson, a Baptist bible student outside the ring and a two-fisted belter inside the ropes, hopes to crack the middleweight rankings Saturday night with an upset over favored Joe Archer at Madison Square Garden.

The 22-year-old kayo specialist from South Bar, Nova Scotia, is a 2-1 underdog in the television 10-round.

The bout will be telecast nationally by ABC-TV starting at 10 p.m., EST.

Richardson, a freshman education major at Eastern Nazarene College at Quincy, Mass., has done most of his fighting in his native Nova Scotia. He comes here with a 31-31 record, including 31 knockouts.

Archer, sixth-ranked contender from New York, has a 33-1 record, including seven knockouts. The handsome, 25-year-old New Yorker is a former longshoreman but he doesn't fight like a dock worker. He is a smoothie in the ring. The lean 160-pounder comes in behind a stinging left jab and counters with fast combination punches.

Richardson is unawed by his rival's ranking and ability.

"I've seen him box," he said. "He's good, no question about it. But I think I can knock him out."

Nobody has stopped Archer yet. If Richardson can accomplish this he'll certainly get the ranking he's seeking.

Scoring will be by the rounds system.

AMONG the out of town visitors coming to see the Little Theatre production of "Annie Get Your Gun" tonight are patrons, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Anderson of Shreveport.

MR. AND MRS. CHET CORONADO of West Monroe happily announce the birth of a son, Danny Paul, on Friday, February 8. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lewis, West Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Salvador Coronado. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bishop of Epps and Mrs. Earl Blankenship of Warden.

RETURNING RECENTLY from a trip to Houston were Mrs. Shelby Cage and Mrs. Conrad Cage. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McNeill. The highlight of the trip was attending the production of "Sound of Music."

OUT OF TOWN visitor, Mrs. L. J. Arnold from Crossett, Arkansas, has spent several days in the home of Mrs. C. H. Aiken. Mrs. Aiken entertained her guest with a festive party on Wednesday afternoon.

A WONDERFUL TWO MONTH vacation was enjoyed by Mrs. E. F. Hayward who returned this week after visiting with her family and friends in Florida. Mrs. Hayward left in December for Atlanta and the wedding of Barbara Woolman Preston. From there, she spent two weeks in the Gainesville, Florida home of her daughter Mrs. W. B. Webb. Then on to South Miami to visit another daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Morgan. Mrs. Charles Bettis, a close friend who lives in Jacksonville, was the next stop for Mrs. Hayward. Friends in Tallahassee were visited before her return home. Eighteen grandchildren were seen by Mrs. Hayward on her travels.

Rehearsal Dinner Given Preceding Vows Today

Mr. and Mrs. William Conrad Spears were hosts for the dinner party which followed the rehearsal of the wedding of Miss Patricia Gail Kelly to their son, William Conrad Spears, Jr. Miss Kelly and Mr. Spears will recite their vows today in the Jesus the Good Shepherd Catholic Church of Monroe.

SAVE ON CORN

Members of the wedding party and guests were seated at the tables in the private dining room of the Embers Restaurant. A heart shaped centerpiece of spring flowers flanked by glowing candles graced the table.

The honoree was dressed in a peau de soie frock of American beauty red featuring a full skirt and cropped jacket.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Urban Adams Kelly, Miss Kathleen Kelly, Miss Mary Clare Bruscato, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Maxwell, Jr., Richard Steadman, Alton Crawley, Reverend Father

Mrs. Teagle Complimented At Delhi Party

Mrs. Oliver Teagle, who before her marriage last week was Miss Irene Carole Durham of Delhi, was the honoree at a miscellaneous bridal shower held at the Sun Recreation hall in Delhi on Saturday afternoon, February 9, from 3 until 5 o'clock. Hostesses for the affair were: Mmes. T. J. Wren, Lorenz Teer, Bob Dick, Joel Wilson, Carleton Johnson, C. P. Hall and B. E. Pickett.

Receiving guests as they arrived were the young bride, in a white brocade sheath with which she wore red shoes and a red carnation corsage, and her mother, Mrs. H. J. Duraham of Delhi and his mother, Mrs. Raphael Teagle of Baton Rouge, wearing identical corsages of peppermint carnations, also gifts of the hostesses.

A Valentine motif was featured throughout the hall. Large red hearts ruffled in white, one bearing the real pictures of the bride and groom adorned the walls. The tea table, covered with white cut-work linen over red satin featured a silver epiphany holding peppermint carnations surrounding a miniature bride dressed in white satin. Opposite was the crystal punch bowl, petit fours and mints, served by Miss Jane Teer. The buffet was covered with red linen and centered with a candelabrum holding red candles entwined with ivy. The table around which the beautiful gifts were displayed, was also covered with red linen and held a miniature tree covered with hearts inscribed "Carole and Oliver."

Two small red camellias in a silver vase graced the guest book table presided over by Mrs. Charles Hixon, Jr. Mrs. Hixon, Miss Teer and all of the hostesses were dressed in red to further carry out the Valentine motif and to compliment the honoree.

Approximately 75 guests called during the appointed hours.

Hints From

HELOISE

DEAR, DEAR HELOISE:

I have an extra large oversized sofa. It must be slip-covered immediately.

I have looked all over town for material over 108 inches wide.

Question! I do not want seams. Now what am I to do? You have the brains and the answer, too, I hope?

DESPERATE

Don't despair. You have the same problem millions of other women have.

I do not know of any place that you can buy material 108 inches wide. But I think I have the solution for you.

Why don't you look around, and a mess? No more, just spray watch the ads in the paper for them with hair spray! I find most flowers last longer, look pretty.

Bedspreads are usually made and no mess.

RUTH

Better test your special brand

out of heavier material. Some are even wider than the inches you are looking for, and have no of hair spray on one flower first.

Mine worked fine but some

I also find that they are heavier than lots of slipcover materials. Heavier materials not only suffice for better wear but . . . will keep the soil on the slipcover itself instead of going through to your beautiful upholstery. I find it most satisfactory.

Some bedsheets are washable — be sure, if you intend to wash your slipcovers, that you check on this — and that it has a shrinkage guarantee. If it does not, I suggest that you wash the slipcover before making your slipcovers.

I hope this helps you. You have come up with a question which I have often wondered about — why manufacturers of piece goods have not solved it before. I think you are great!

Love,

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE:

I had trouble with my own children and friends' children wanting to write on the walls of our play room.

To remedy this my husband took the sides of large cardboard car-

tions and tacked them along one wall and the problem was solved!

When the cardboard was covered with scribbling we turned it over, and when that side was filled we got another piece of cardboard.

Another trick might be to tack large pieces of shelf paper or old wallpaper to the walls with the cardboard underneath it in case the children get a hold of an ink pen.

GALE

I also find that they are heavier than lots of slipcover materials. Heavier materials not only suffice for better wear but . . . will keep the soil on the slipcover itself instead of going through to your beautiful upholstery. I find it most satisfactory.

Some bedsheets are washable — be sure, if you intend to wash your slipcovers, that you check on this — and that it has a shrinkage guarantee. If it does not, I suggest that you wash the slipcover before making your slipcovers.

I hope this helps you. You have come up with a question which I have often wondered about — why manufacturers of piece goods have not solved it before. I think you are great!

Hints From

HELOISE

DEAR, DEAR HELOISE:

I have an extra large over-sized sofa. It must be slip-covered immediately.

I have looked all over town for material over 108 inches wide.

Question! I do not want seams. Now what am I to do? You have the brains and the answer, too, I hope?

DESPERATE

Don't despair. You have the same problem millions of other women have.

I do not know of any place that you can buy material 108 inches wide. But I think I have the solution for you.

Why don't you look around, and watch the ads in the paper for some bedsheets on sale!

Bedsheets are usually made out of heavier material. Some are even wider than the inches you are looking for, and have no seams.

I also find that they are heavier than lots of slipcover materials. Heavier materials not only suffice for better wear but . . . will keep the soil on the slipcover itself instead of going through to your beautiful upholstery. I find it most satisfactory.

Some bedsheets are washable — be sure, if you intend to wash your slipcovers, that you check on this — and that it has a shrinkage guarantee. If it does not, I suggest that you wash the bedsheets before making your slipcovers.

I hope this helps you. You have come up with a question which I have often wondered about — why manufacturers of piece goods have not solved it before. I think you are great!

DEAR HELOISE:

I had trouble with my own children and friends' children wanting to write on the walls of our play room.

To remedy this my husband took the sides of large cardboard car-

tions and tacked them along one wall and the problem was solved!

When the cardboard was covered with scribbling we turned it over, and when that side was filled we got another piece of cardboard.

Another trick might be to tack large pieces of shelf paper or old wallpaper to the walls with the cardboard underneath it in case the children get a hold of an ink pen.

FROM RED BULGARIA

Africa Students Starting Exodus

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Soviet blitzkrieg in apparent concern over damage done to its African policies. About 500 disillusioned African students are reported leaving Communist Bulgaria and racial discrimination. Their frustrated attempt to form a union of African students in Bulgaria and a subsequent street clash with Bulgarian police symptom of their discontent.

"We have been insulted in every possible way," said one student. "Our government does not contend the outflow of students from Bulgaria is a mere trickle and that foreign students live under happy conditions behind the iron curtain."

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — Soviet propaganda laid down an embarrassed volley of denials and excuses Friday as 17 angry Ghanaian students arrived by plane from Sofia, leading a reported exodus of 500 disgusted African students from Communist Bulgaria.

"We have been called black monkeys and jungle people and we were treated like dirt," said Robert Kotey, 25, one of the Ambassador Appan Samong, who accompanied the students.

Charging racial discrimination said he was called to the foreign ministry after the demonstration students from 20 African nations, and handed a note of complaint. Kotey told newsmen, "Whoever I rejected the note because it among us had leftist leanings has was incorrect," he said. "Our people behaved peacefully, but they were beaten up."

Other students are waiting for transportation to leave the Iron Curtain country.

The immediate cause for their departure was the arrest Monday night of seven leaders making up the executive committee of the All-African Students' Union in Sofia.

The Communists banned the union and police and militia beat up the students when they staged a protest parade Tuesday.

But the cause lay deeper, students reported. For during a year of study, they said, we were insulted on the streets and would not be allowed to continue our regular studies unless we accepted political lessons.

In Moscow, the news agency Tass denied any mass exodus from Bulgaria was in the making. But we still had to take indoctrination Western newspapers and nation classes.

The students stopped off in Vienna en route to Bonn, West Germany, spreading rumors, it quoted many. The ambassador said his only 11 Ghanaian students had government will try to find universities in West Germany where they stay, some apologetic for their "light-minded" request to leave, it added.

Tass said only a handful of the African students wanted the students' union. While acknowledging the demonstration, it said the only counteraction by Bulgaria was to deport seven students.

The Moscow Soviet news newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda made no reference to Bulgaria, but in an article the prosector of Moscow University, K.I. Ivanov, said everything possible is done to make foreign students happy in the Soviet Union.

Many African students feel they are segregated in being assigned to Patrice Lumumba University, a separate school in Moscow.

Kotey, an agricultural student at union headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., shortly from Accra, said discrimination after the Times' denial.

Brown repeated in the statement a previous charge that newspapers outside of New York had been approached by New York publishers to print special editions and "haul them to New York."

GETS NAVY CONTRACT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Vitro International Typographical Laboratories Division of Vitro Corp. of America has received a $3,274,263 Navy contract covering additional Terrier missile system-engineering services.

The statement by the New York Times was in reply to a story in the New York Standard, a strike-born newspaper which plans to cease publication at the end of the printers' strike which as topped the New York City circulation of the Times and eight other newspapers.

Elmer Brown, president of the ITU, charged in the Standard story that New York publishers were trying to get their papers printed in other cities and shipped to New York for delivery.

Brown later stated that the union was considering extending its strike to the Western edition of the Times, printed in Los Angeles, and the Times international edition, printed in Paris.

The Times, in its statement on Friday night, denied that it had approached a Montreal newspaper — or any other newspaper — to arrange for out-of-town publication.

The ITU statement was re-enacted.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

long in a home with BOTH parents — and plenty of love.

DEAR ABBY: Why do some women act so awful to their husbands? My Daddy has a real bad hearing loss and Mother just has a fit when he mentions getting a hearing aid. She buys anything she needs or wants.

DEAR DAUGHTER: Tell your Daddy to pretend he doesn't hear a fit when she objects to his getting a hearing aid. Your Mother's handicap is more serious than Daddy's. No feelings.

Gardiner also referred to accusations made by Archbishop Joseph Cornilis in Brussels.

The Catholic charges were: —That Irish troops fired point-blank at patients in a ward of the Union Miniere Hospital of Lubumbashi on Dec. 29.

—That Ethiopian soldiers killed 70 persons.

—That several Catholic Churches had been damaged, looted and otherwise desecrated.

Gardiner said investigations showed there were no Irish troops in the Lubumbashi area on Dec. 29. However, there were Ethiopian troops there, who were subjected to "heavy" firing from inside the hospital compound.

The Ethiopians, it was said, had to enter the hospital area to clear out Katanga gendarmerie positions. In the fighting, one patient was wounded in the thigh and another was grazed. No firing took place inside the hospital ward and damage was slight, the U.N. inquiry showed.

Gardiner said "no evidence has been produced to substantiate" the charge that Ethiopians killed 70 persons.

The investigation indicated that there were four corpses in the Lubumbashi Hospital and 28 in the Prince Leopold Hospital, all reported to be victims of the fighting. But it was said to be impossible to determine the source of the shooting that killed them.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, care of News Star.

DEAR MOTHER: Tell your daughter that a girl who wrestles with the boys becomes "one of the boys" ... and forfeits her femininity. She should start now to build a feminine image, acquire a few girl friends and leave the roughhousing to the fellows.

REUTHER URGES CONGRESS TO ACT SWIFTLY ON PLANS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Walter P. Reuther, AFL-CIO vice-president, Friday urged that Congress move swiftly to enact a tax cut, increase welfare spending and accelerate public works programs.

Immediate action is needed, the United Auto Workers president said, to speed up the economy and reduce unemployment.

The labor leader blamed high unemployment and "under-utilization of our capacity to produce" for "tragic waste and human hardship." He said the nation "cannot afford and must not tolerate" such conditions.

To alleviate these problems, Reuther said in a statement submitted to the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, an immediate tax cut should be enacted. It should be concentrated in the lowest income brackets and total $10 billion a year, he recommended.

The company's appearance in Monroe is part of a 43-city tour of the United States. Among the well-known entertainers to appear here are Lew Christensen, Jocelyn Vollmar, Sally Bailey, Robert Gladstein, and Nancy Robinson.

No single seat tickets will be sold for this performance, but a number of season memberships in the Northeast State Concerts Association are available by telephoning FA 5-6361, Ext. 21:

ORVA OFFICIAL LISTS PROGRAM FOR CONVENTION

Three main topics are expected to occupy the greater part of discussions next Wednesday and Thursday at the annual meeting of the Ouachita River Valley Association in El Dorado, Ark.

Executive Secretary H. K. Thatcher listed as set for the convention program, discussions on: (1) the nine-foot channel and the DeGray reservoir projects, about to enter heavy construction phases; (2) the Benton Dam, a water supply for the Saline River Valley, and the Bayou Bartholomew projects, and (3) the Tensas Basin drainage project.

The convention, headquartered in the Randolph Hotel, starts with registration Wednesday at 1 p.m. A noon luncheon Thursday in the Plantation Room of the Garrett Hotel will close the meeting with an address by Col. Warren S. Everett, district engineer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

A total of $4,950,000 in funds have been listed in the President's 1964 budget for construction in the Ouachita River Basin. Included are $1,000,000 on the nine-foot channel, $2,350,000 for the DeGray Dam, $1,500,000 for Tensas Basin drainage, and $100,000 for a power plant at Narrows Dam.

Two persons were either fined or forfeited $8 for running red lights, one disturbing the peace count was withdrawn and another similar count resulted in a $30 fine at Narrows Dam.

U.N. Denies Charges By Congo Church

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United Nations Friday formally denied Roman Catholic Church authorities' charges that U.N. troops committed atrocities and desecrated churches in the Congo late last year.

The denial was contained in a letter from Robert K. A. Gardiner, officer in charge of the U.N. operation in the Congo, to Monseigneur E. Kileshe, vicar general of the Elisabethville Archdiocese.

Gardiner also referred to accusations made by Archbishop Joseph Cornilis in Brussels.

The Catholic charges were: —That Irish troops fired point-blank at patients in a ward of the Union Miniere Hospital of Lubumbashi on Dec. 29.

President Kennedy's tax cut proposal, applying to all income brackets, and corporations, totals $10.3 billion.

President Kennedy's tax cut proposal, applying to all income brackets, and corporations, totals $10.3 billion.

Reuther called for a major increase in public spending for education, health, housing, urban renewal, mass transportation and resources conservation and development. "Substantial increases" in foreign aid also should be made, he said.

He put no price tag on any of his recommendations.

Area being served in the ABCD plan is bounded by South Grand Street, the Illinois Central railroad tracks, Hall Street and Wood Street.

Buildings — Bernhardt, Ouachita National Bank, Ouachita Parish Courthouse and St. Francis Hospital.

Hotels — Frances and Virginia.

Streets — North Fifth and DeSiard, Catalpa and DeSiard, North Third and DeSiard, North Grand and Grammont, South Grand and Wood, front of the Post Office, pharmacy on Jackson Street and front of the Continental Bus Station on Grammont Street.

STATUS RAISED

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Friday it has raised the status of its mission in Yemen to that of an embassy. The Friday night, denied that it had approached a Montreal newspaper — said Nikolai Sulitksy, 57, has been — or any other newspaper — to appointed ambassador. He has been in Yemen since 1960 as an envoy.

GRIM REMINDER — Special —

To Englishwoman Mrs. Clare Lovett, October's "Operation Chlorine" in the Mississippi River or next week, near Natchez, Miss., was "a grim reminder of wartime London."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haden III, of Louisiana, Mo., wrote in a "Waterways Journal" article about their "Huckleberry Finn" tour down the river, the Mississippi aboard the towboat "America" from St. Louis to New Orleans.

At the vessel named "Operation Chlorine" where engineers were raising four chlorine gas laden tanks from the bottom of the river, occupants received gas masks from the Coast Guard. The Guard took the masks back after the vessel had safely gone by the area. "To us," wrote the Hadeys, "it was an interesting incident, but to Mrs. Lovett it was a grim reminder of wartime in London."
